New site visitor

1. As a user, I want to be able to easily navigate to the different site pages.

The website has a navigation bar for desktop which collapses into a hamburger menu on mobile devices. The hamburger menu is placed on the top left corner for a better UX.

2. As a user, I want to see a page containing all games.

The Games page displays all games contained in the database.
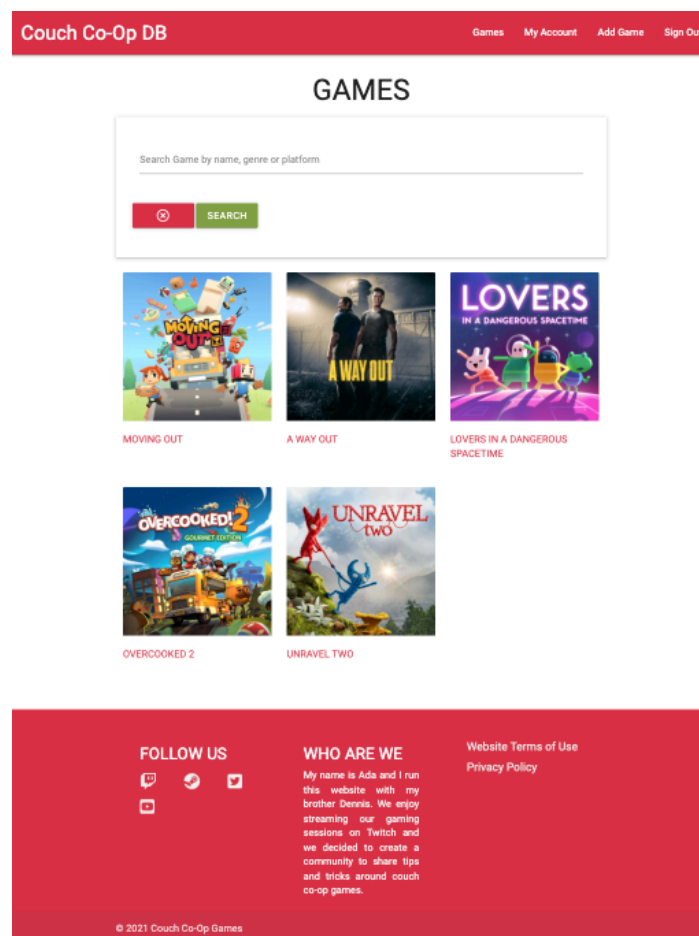

3. As a user, I want to be able to register on the site.

The website allows users to register with a username and password.

4. As a user, I want to be able to add new games and add comments.

Registered users can add new games to the database, as well as post comments/reviews on each game's page.

5. As a user, I want to be able to read other member's reviews.

On each game's page, the users can read comments posted by other members of the community.

This game is awesome, can't stop playing!

6. As a user, I want to be able to search the site by games names, number of players and platform.

*Note: when designing the search field, I realised that searching by number of players was not important, as these are games that are meant to be played by 2 to 4 players. Instead, I added the genre as a query option because I deemed it could be more relevant.

7. As a user, I want to be able to find direct links to purchase the games I like.

All users, regardless whether they are registered or not, can click on the shopping link and be redirected to the Steam store to purchase the game.
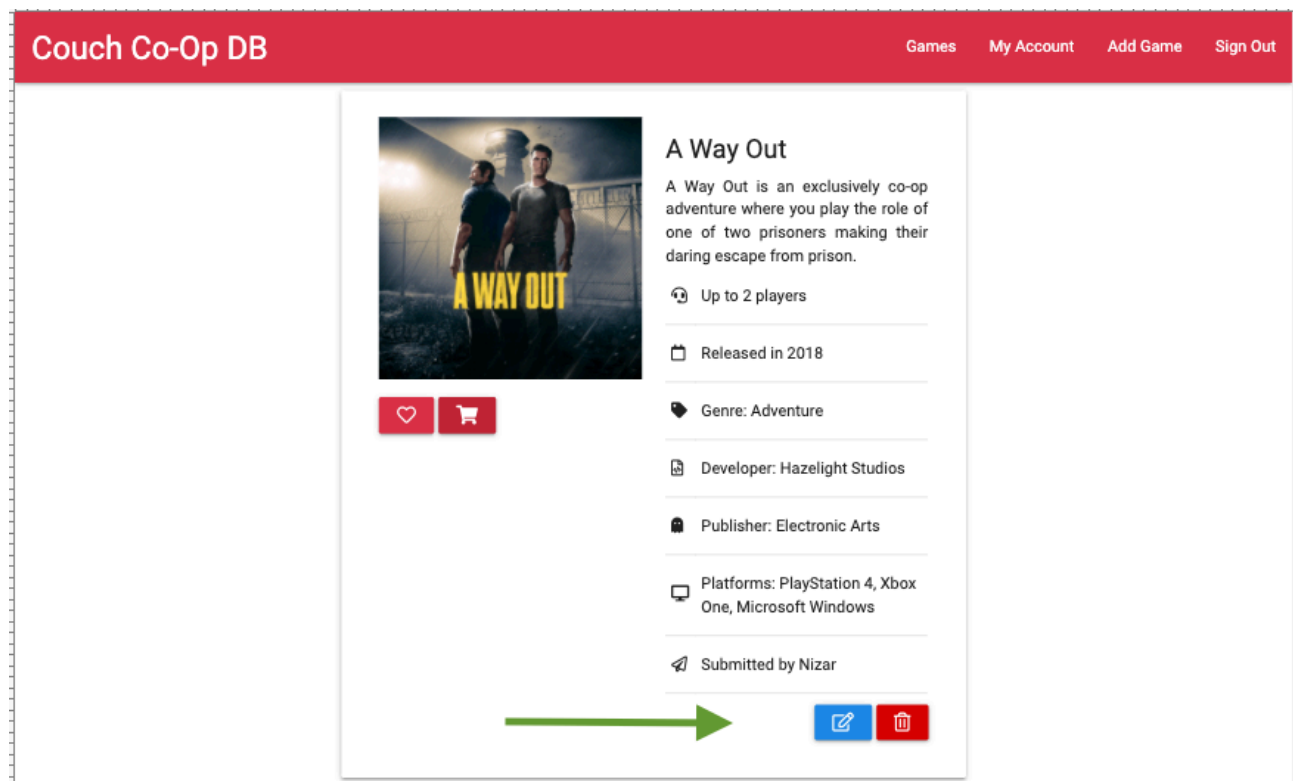

Returning site visitor

1. As a user, I want to see my user account profile page.

Any registered user can access their account page from the navigation menu.

2. As a user, I want to be able to update and/or delete any of the games I have added.

Users can edit and/or delete games they've added to the database from the game view.

3. As a user, I want to be able to mark games as favorites, so I can easily see them from my account page.

Users can mark a game as favourite. The games marked as favourite are visible on the user's account page.

4. As a user, I want to be able to leave comments on the other games.

This is tested in user story four above in the new site visitor part

Site Administrator

1. As an Administrator, I want to be able to add, edit and delete the games details.

The site administrator has all the rights to add, edit, delete the games details, regardless by whom these have been added. In the screenshot below, for testing, I logged in as Admin and visited "Overcooked 2" game page. As it can be seen, both edit and delete buttons are available, even if Admin user did not submit the game:
